Dxpedition Report

This is the 51st DXpedition to Sheigra according to Tony's research, the first being back in October 1985. And this would be the 6th time we have stayed in Mary's cottage here in this far north-west corner of the Scottish mainland (the original DX cottage used from 1985 to 2001 sadly still stands empty and unoccupied). As we headed north, we heard that an Army lorry had crashed through the Laxford Bridge where the roads from Ullapool and Lairg meet and head north to Kinlochbervie and Sheigra. The bridge was closed so we faced a two hour detour via Tongue on the north coast. Fortunately, by the time we got there, the bridge had reopened to light vehicles and we arrived in Sheigra in good time to put up a couple of aerials before dusk.

The weather was generally unsettled during the two weeks with some periods of rain and very windy spells – indeed it was difficult to stay on your feet when putting up the final length of the 305 degree beverage on the first Saturday, such was the strength of the wind once above the shelter of Sheigra's valley! But we also took advantage of some calm sunny days when we could enjoy the wild landscape including two long walks to remote bothies at Strathan and Strathchailleach (via Sandwood Bay). The bothies would make good interference-free DX shacks but have no electricity and are miles from any road!

Plenty of sheep around in Sheigra this year, though they did not harm our beverages. But we suffered ten separate overnight breaks, all on the North American aerial, and all caused by deer we think. Repairs in the pitch Sheigra night by torchlight or first thing in the morning were needed to keep this aerial fully optimised. KLO, Ogden Utah on 1430 kHz we realised was heard on this beverage when it was broken a third the way down its length and therefore also unterminated! We see more herds of deer on the distant hills around Sheigra these days. But we think the overnight damage may just be done by one deer venturing right down near the houses under the cover of darkness. The 5 foot supporting canes we use will let sheep roam freely underneath the wires, but they are too low for deer (although they can leap over them in daylight). But at night deer must crash into the wire, drag it out of the canes and snap it (we use thin 0.2/7 strand wire which easily breaks so it won't cause any harm to the animals!) Eventually we put up a reserve North American aerial but this suffered exactly the same fate. Thankfully no problems with any of the other aerials. The 90 degree Middle East aerial we again left unterminated which would give possible catches from the opposite direction (Americas) at night. We again put out a southerly beverage for UK LPAMs and Africa, but with poor results, mainly as Spanish stations are in the same direction and occupy many channels.

We commented last year on electrical interference and sadly even in this remote area there was even more this year, for the first time affecting all our aerials at almost all times of day and night. Still, plenty of DX could be heard, but the QRN made reception of the weakest signals very trying at times. Also notable is the amount of digital noise audible on many North American channels, spillover from IBOC HD transmissions on adjacent frequencies (HD stations are still audible in AM but they put out digital noise affecting adjacent channels).

Conditions were similar to this time last year, and again did not change much from day to day thanks to the zero sunspots. On medium wave we had North America from fade-in around 2100 UTC until typical fade-out around 0930, a bit later on 15th when the band stayed open to the US and Canadian west coast past 1000. The Far East could be heard from around 1500 most afternoons, with many Chinese, Korean, Vietnamese and even Philippine stations logged, also India and Iran a bit later on. On shortwave we enjoyed superior reception to that possible at home, concentrating on Latin America, Africa and the Far East. Highlights included reception of Radio Congo on 6115 on two separate occasions. Our SW logs are as usual included in the HF & Tropical logbook sections.

Notable loggings or possible Sheigra "Firsts" are highlighted in bold.
